As part of its 2025 goal-setting process, the City Council identified the expansion of transit options as a priority. In support of this goal, the Council's Sustainability and Transportation Committee is exploring strategies to strengthen Portland's multi-modal transportation system. To inform this effort, the Committee will host a panel discussion with representatives from the region's transit agencies, PACTS, and MaineDOT. The discussion will provide an overview of the current public transportation network and how it is serving residents today. The Committee seeks to gather insights and ideas on how the City of Portland can help grow and improve the network to make it more accessible, convenient, and effective for residents, employees, and visitors. This conversation will lay the groundwork for future policy initiatives the Committee may consider advancing.
